HOTELS.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN HOUSE,
Near Chattanooga, Tenn.

THERE is no more pleasant spot for a summer residence than the summit of Lookout Mountain. The scenery is most beautiful and affords great delight to the lovers of nature.

Looking to the North and East, from the MOUNTAIN HOUSE, a varied landscape is seen. To the left flows the placid Tennessee, winding in and out among the hills till far away in the distance its waters seem to blend with the clouds. Wooded hills and rich valleys, with waving fields of corn and grain, extend as far as the eye can reach in the horizon, where the faint outlines of the Great Smoky Mountains are seen traced upon the sky.

It has all the telegraph and mail facilities, being but an hour's ride from Chattanooga, and is a First-Class Hotel.

Here in the peaceful days before the war, the beauty and intelligence of the South assembled every Summer to breathe the pure mountain air, and it will soon again be the favorite Summer resort of all. Worn out of the dust and heat of crowded cities, desire relaxation of mind and invigoration of body, amid the finest scenery in the country.

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

A DISSERTATION ON PUFFS.

FROM THE DIARY OF DIDYMUS PECK.

It is by no means a rare circumstance, but on the other hand surprisingly common to meet with people whose only genuine, unmixed happiness consists in seeing themselves in print.

I remember feeling exceedingly large myself, some years ago, when I started the Vanguard of Constitutional Liberty, with "Didymus Peck, editor," prominently displayed in the upper left hand corner. I got enough of greatness in about eighteen months, but my proposition in a general way is nevertheless a true one.

Why there's Dr. Sardine, for instance, of the church of St. Coupon. How comfortable it makes him feel to be patted on the back by the local editor! to be reminded of his fervent piety, which such humble christians are apt to overlook in themselves; to be assured that he is indeed a man of God, leading up through heavenly avenues a very large and fashionable congregation, and that he ought by good rights to be presented with a Gothic parsonage in the suburbs.

"I tell you, Magnolia, that's a good deal better than an empty contribution box."

Then there is my captivating young friend, Miss Florilla Trelawney. She would rather have moped a month than missed that mention in the Daily Compost's account of the grand party at Gamboiler Dressim's. It was something after this style:

"Surpassing the oreide brilliancy of the bronzed magnificence of those high-priced chandeliers, there shone with golden luster upon that assembled conglomeration of love and splendor, the dazzling corusc ations of her resplendent beauty and the peerless clusters of her Australian diamonds!"

To be sure it was only "Miss F——a T——y," which the wicked boys said meant "Fatty," but nothing next to spiritual translation could have made the dear child more happy. Then there is Mr. Sniffle, the great Dyonysius Smacken.

Through the prefix of "honorable" in the Morning Compost, he derives ecstacy, as boys suck bliss out of a cider barrel. It intensifies the rubicund luster of his Websterian visage, and stimulates the flow of amber juices from each corner of that Ciceronian orifice, known as the mouth of the oracle.

And so on further, until I might make the "grand rounds" of a motley multitude, who have an itching for newspaper celebrity of the sensational and highly flavored sort, like Miss Florilla and the doctor, or our friend Smackem, who has been written on the page of history as the "concentrated essence of all American patriotism;" or Deacon Haultaut, who is a stereotyped edition of "all christian graces," or Mr. Gambolier Dressum, of whom a needy local hath said that "his munificent liberality and self-sacrificing spirit of accommodation, during a period of great financial stringency have endeared him to many a fellow-citizen in the hour of adversity"—at the low rate of five per cent. a month!

It will readily be seen, where there is such a general thirst for notoriety, in addition to the advertising wants of a commercial community, equally possessed with a morbid appetite for the stimulus of newspaper adulation, that the editorial puff must become a notable institution, like some other commodities, to be bought, sold, and delivered "as cash collected, and "no questions asked."

So many lines, at so much a line or so much in bulk, with the proper admixture of adjectives, form a combination of alchemic potency for the manufacture of fame, fortune and reputation.

In this remarkable age of ours, editors themselves can hardly live without it. They cannot write up characters to order, without it. Statesmen cannot be carved out of basswood without it. It goes a long way towards the construction of military renown and brigadier stars. Poets, sometimes, waiting for an introduction to the Muses, have to draw on it for "divine afflatus." It supplies unction to a certain class of preachers; and, out of its magical resources, the quack, buffoon and charlatan win wealth and power in life and pomp and pageantry in death.

"But the thought occurs to me," said Magnolia, "that a system which pampers a very vulgar appetite, and not seldom at the expense of truth, good sense and good morals, is not altogether legitimate, nor calculated to confirm our faith in the public journals; and when it comes to the advertisement of one's business or profession, why can it not be done in a more becoming style and in the proper place, and with at least a distant show of regard to common veracity."

I'll tell you why. The great question which now agitates the moral universe, before which the reconstruction of these unhappy territories and the ethnological status of the negro fade into insignificance, resolves itself into these:

"Will it pay? and, What will it pay?"

Truth is a good thing, in her way, but better, out of the way. She is "crushed to earth," and as to her "rising again," that's but the fancy of an antiquated poet. She's down now for a certainty, and her head "in chancery."

But to return from our digression. Here is a model notice, the analysis of which may aid us in our lucubrations just at this point. I find it in the Compost:

"PERSONAL.—We are rejoiced to welcome back to this hospitable hearts and homes of Memphis, the eminent advocate and accomplished barrister, Mr. Hyoscyamus Buggs. Our learned friend has been rusticating for a few weeks among the hunting and fishing grounds of Minnesota, and returns to his arduous position at the bar in a most exuberant state of convalescence. We take pleasure in suggesting to such of our fellow-citizens as need the services of a profound jurist, that Mr. Buggs may be found at the office of Buggs & Shyster, Strychnine alley."

It will at once be apprehended that Mr. Buggs, returning from his up river sojourn, desires to put in an appearance, and of course in such a way as to benefit his professional aspirations. If it were simply announced that "Lawyer Buggs had got home and might be found at his office," although this might be exceedingly proper and rigidly true, yet such a stupid notice would have paid neither the editor nor the counselor.

As it is, the grandiloquent flourish with which the individual is again ushered into the hearts and homes of Memphis, as if he were a Marshall or a Story, rediviva, not only remunerates the writer for the talent and skill invested, but creates in Mr. Buggs a most benign and agreeable sense of self-importance.

To be sure, it places him before his friends in a somewhat dramatic costume, but then the successes of life, as a general thing, are more dramatic than real. A man is always thought more of, for what he isn't, than for what he be. So Mr. B.'s friends call him a brick, invite him to drink, and employ his services in the metropolitan courts! The multitude, who have a tacit sort of belief in the infallibility of their newspaper, take it for granted that Buggs is a very heavy dog; and the general conclusion is that he is doubtless a good fellow, not afraid to show his hand, and in no danger of default on account of an overwhelming modesty.

The following notice will further illustrate my meaning:

"We could not repress a smile, (local editors don't, often,) as we entered the inviting precincts of the St. Gambrinus restaurant, recently opened in the basement of Pyramid block. Fitted up in the most gorgeous and tasteful manner, it is indeed a perfect bijou, where gentlemen may rely upon finding all the comforts of a home, and more too. Mr. Schmidt, the urbane proprietor, is a gentleman of baronial extraction and classic attainments, and in no way connected with the Smith family of America."

If the local editor had simply given publicity to the unvarnished fact that John Smith had opened a new lager-beer saloon, and would like to see the boys alongside his bar, throwing for drinks, Mr. John Smith would not have felt at all satisfied. He wants to buy an air of respectability from the newspaper, so that "gentlemen" may come to him for the comforts of a home; but the matter-of-fact announcement would have been no better to him than a last year's advertisement. It would'nt have "paid" Mr. Smith—it wouldn't have "paid" Mr. Editor—and might have unfortunately eventuated in depriving the city of one of her chief wants, a new drinking saloon.

On the same principle of mutual profit, again, the Compost favors us also with the following elegant conception, which occupies the most conspicuous place in the local columns:

"We take infinite pleasure in stating to the innumerable multitude who peruse the Daily Compost, that Dr. Thomas Jones, a chiropodist of distinguished fame, has arrived in the city, and taken rooms at the Occidental house. He performs the most complicated operations with complete surgical success and bears with him numerous testimonials of his skill, corroborated by the bunions themselves, preserved in spirits."

Now as no one, at all affected with gentility, would have called upon "Tom Jones, the corn-doctor," for the relief of his sufferings, who may question the propriety of serving him up as a live professor and parading his wonderful skill as an item of local news, couched in the best literary style of the art, and personally indorsed by the editor himself?

And so I might go on from day to day. In the paper before me, out of twenty-nine distinct and separate items in what is called the local column, there are twenty-two at least, that are purely personal or advertising puffs, so forced upon the public eye that they cannot be overlooked or avoided; all with scarce an exception, downright falsehood or purposed exaggeration, and all read, and all in one way or another, paid for.

And so it will continue, my dear Magnolia, so long as it "pays," and so long as the public encourages or endures the perpetuation of the nuisance.

For a most unquestionable nuisance has this newspaper fashion of indiscriminating puffing become. The columns to which we were wont to turn for the current events of the day or in dearth of news, the agreeable fancies of the editor, have been usurped by a never-intermitting repetition of stale compliment, stereotyped praise or sycophantic adulation, which should never, except in rare and honorable cases, receive even the semblance of editorial sanction, under any head of original matter.

It is scarcely too harsh to say that the greed of money, a ravenous gullibility on the part of the people, and a morbid passion for notoriety, have converted half the papers in the country into vehicles of scandal, procuresses of vice and panderers to fraud.

The whole system, if properly considered and appreciated, would be found antagonistic to the growth of social virtue and mercantile integrity, and become a stench in the nostrils of reputable manhood.

If it must needs be that quackery and empiricism have to be advertised to the world in articles purporting to be of editorial origin; and if the multitudinous pretentions of ignorance and imposture must perforce be bolstered up in the same way, let them at least be banished, if not into utter darkness, to some exclusive and appropriate territory outside the editorial range; and at the same time sweep the local column of that everlasting brood of notices that so frequently crowds everything out of real value altogether out of sight, to make room for the dreary concatenation of cheap humbug and party.

Especially, let an end come, speedy, absolute and eternal, to the abominable fashion of extending editorial sanction to what no respectable journalist would defile his hands with as a private gentleman, and of giving editorial recognition to those from whose personal association the private gentleman would shrink upon the street.

—The 7 p m. express train from New York, on the Erie road, was thrown from the track near Monroe, on Sunday night. The locomotive was upset and the baggage and smoking cars smashed. Fortunately but one person, Charles Stiles, of Elmira, was injured, and he not seriously.

—Inventors of popular toys get quick returns. The inventor of the common street toy known as the "returning ball," is said to have realized $100,000; the "always wound up toy" realised $50,000; the inventor of the "walking doll," which was so fashionable a few years ago, made $75,000 by his patent. The "dancing Jim Crow" toy, introduced a few years ago, was invented by an invalid boy, and won a fortune.

—Five Spaniards were arrested in New York on Sunday, on the supposition that they are the parties who committed the robbery of $200,000 in Mexico. Detectives had been on their track for some time. They were subsequently released, an examination proving that the metal found in their possession, supposed to be gold, was only copper.

WASHINGTON, September 3.—The following proclamation was issued by the president to-day:

WHEREAS, By the constitution of the United States the executive power is vested in the president of the United States of America, who is bound, by solemn oath, to faithfully execute the office of president, and, to the best of his ability, to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States, and is, by the same instrument, made commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and is required to take care that the laws be faithfully executed; and whereas, by the same constitution it is provided that the said constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof shall be the supreme law of the land, and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby; and whereas, by the same constitution the judicial powers of the United States are vested in one supreme court and in such inferior courts as congress may from time to time ordain and establish, and the aforesaid judicial powers are declared to extend to all cases in law and equity arising under the constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties which shall be made under their authority; and whereas, all officers, civil and military, are bound by oath that they will support and defend the constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; and, whereas, all officers of the army and navy of the United States in accepting their commissions under the laws of congress, and the rules and articles of war, incur an obligation to observe, obey and follow such directions as they shall from time to time receive from the president, or the general, or other superior officers set over them according to the rules and discipline of war; and whereas, it is provided by law that whenever, by reason of unlawful obstructions, combinations or assemblages of persons, or rebellion against the authority of the government of the United States, it shall become impracticable, in the judgement of the president of the United States, to enforce, by the ordinary course of judicial proceeding, the laws of the United States within any state or territory, the executive, in that case, is authorized and required to secure their faithful execution by the employment of the land and naval forces; and whereas, impediments and obstructions, serious in their character, have recently been interposed, in the states of North Carolina and South Carolina, hindering and preventing for a time a proper enforcement of the laws of the United States and of the judgments and decrees of the lawful courts thereof, in disregard of the command of the president of the United States, and the peace, reasonable and well founded apprehensions exist that such ill advised and unlawful proceedings may again be attempted there or elsewhere;

Now, therefore, I, Andrew Johnson, president of the United States, do hereby warn all persons against obstructing or hindering in any manner whatever the faithful execution of the constitution and laws, and I do solemnly enjoin and command all officers of the government, civil and military, to render due obedience to said laws, and to the judgments and decrees of the courts of the United States, and to give all the aid in their power necessary to the prompt enforcement and execution of said laws, decrees, judgments and processes; and I do hereby enjoin upon the officers of the army and navy to assist and sustain the courts, and other civil authorities of the United States in a faithful administration of the laws thereof, and in the judgments, decrees, mandates and processes of the United States, and I call upon all good and well disposed citizens of the United States to remember that upon the said constitution and laws, and upon the judgments, decrees and processes of the courts made in accordance with the same, depend the protection of the lives, liberty, prosperity and happiness of the people, and I exhort them everywhere to testify their devotion to their country, their pride in its prosperity and goodness and their determination to uphold its free institutions by a hearty co-operation in the efforts of the government to maintain and preserve the supremacy of the federal constitution, and to preserve unimpaired the integrity of the national union. In testimony whereof I have caused the seal of the United States to be affixed to these presents, and sign the same with my hand.

Done at the city of Washington this, the third day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven.

(signed) ANDREW JOHSON.

By the President.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Sec. of State.

RALEIGH, September 4.—A large number of delegates to the radical convention which assembled to-day are already here, and crowds are still arriving by every train. The present indications show an immense gathering. The whites are largely represented, nearly all of whom are moderates of the Goodloe wing.

The equal rights convention will meet here to-morrow, and promises to be a large demonstration. Loyalists, both black and white, will be here from all parts of the state.

WILMINGTON, DEL., September 4.—An election was held in this city yesterday, and Joshua S. Valentine, the radical candidate for mayor, was elected by 270 majority. The whole radical ticket has been elected except in one ward, where there is a democratic majority of fifteen.

A Card.

WE will at once rebuild our warehouse, and will have it completed by the 15th of September next, by the first day of that month we will be ready to receive goods on store.

The sheds will be divided into fire proof compartments by brick walls, and covered with tin. Those who have patronised us for the last two seasons, and those who may have proposed to do so the approaching one, may rest assured we will be ready for them.

We design establishing a Cotton Compress in connection with our warehouse, upon an adjacent lot, which will be ready by the 1st of October or sooner. The proximity of our establishment to the river renders the handling of cotton so convenient that we can transfer cotton for shipment by river free of drayage. The advantage of the position is equal to one drayage on all cotton sent for compressment from other warehouses, while on all cotton in our warehouse for compressment there can be two drayages saved, since it would be as easy for us to transfer it from our shed to the Compress as to turn it out in the ordinary way for transfer by drays.

WHAT GOVERNMENT SHOULD A PATRIOT DESIRE?

You say, "The tyranny of a mob, the despotism of a single will, and the usurpation of a popular assembly" "are hateful" You ask "the doctrine that the will of the people is the law of the land," is atrocious" to you. Now I have written this merely to inquire what kind of a government you want and would support. A CORRESPONDENT.

We want, and would support,

"To the last grasp, with truth and loyalty,"

the constitutional government of the United States, established by the fathers.

By the tyranny of a mob, we meant anarchy and lynch-law, dethroning the laws of the land and "the tribunals of justice. We need not explain what we meant by the despotism of a single will. EDMUND BURKE, the wisest of England's Statesmen, shall characterize for us the governments of force and a single will established by Congress over the Southern States.

He said, in his speech on the Impeachment of WARREN HASTINGS:

"It is true that the Supreme power in every Constitution of government, must be absolute; and thus may be corrupted into the arbitrary. But all good Constitutions have established certain fixed rules for the exercise of their functions, which they rarely or ever depart from, and which guide even the security against that evil itself into the permanent of will and force instead of wisdom and justice."

No constitution of government ever did that so carefully, and as the makers fondly imagined, so efficiently, as that proposed by the Convention of 1787, and adopted by the States. But that Constitution is not even claimed or pretended to confer on 'Congress' the powers not of Government which it exercises over the Southern States, but the power which it has exercised of investing military officers with arbitrary and despotic powers of administration and legislation over these subjugated States as a conquered country. Mark the distinction, reader, for you will see its importance in a moment. Speaking of the refusal of the Senate to concur in an amendment adopted by the House, providing that the President should have no power to remove the district commanders without the consent of the Senate, Mr. STEVENS in a late letter says:

"Some of the members of the Senate seemed to doubt their power under the Constitution which they had so often REPUDIATED, and which was the only TEST REGARDED, and which all AGREED THAT WE WERE ACTING."

"But though the supreme power is in a situation resembling arbitrary, yet never was there heard of in the history of the world, that is, in that mixed chaos of human wisdom and folly, such a thing as an intermediate arbitrary power —that is, of a subaltern or government, who is to exert authority among the people, without any law at all, and who is to have the benefit of all laws, and all forms of law when he is called to account. For that is to let a wild beast (for such is a man without law, loose upon the people to prey on them at his pleasure; whilst all the laws which ought to secure the people against the abuse of power are employed to screen that abuse against the cries of the people.

"This is de facto the state of our Indian Government. But to establish it so in right, as well as in fact, is a thing left for us to begin with—the first of mankind.

"For a subordinate, arbitrary, or even despotic power, never was heard of, in right, claim, or authorized practice."

The Congress of the United States HAS established exactly such an arbitrary, despotic subordinate power over ten States; an intermediate arbitrary power. Every District Commander IS AUTHORIZED BY LAW TO EXERT AUTHORITY OVER THE PEOPLE WITHOUT ANY LAW AT ALL. VERRES had that power, de facto, in Sicily, as the Turkish Pachas have had it, and the Soubahdars in India. But none of them had it in right as well as fact: nor did England begin with it. THAT HAS BEEN LEFT FOR THE UNITED STATES TO DO; AND THEY HAVE DONE IT.

BURKE said:

"I will venture to say of the Governments of Asia, that none of them ever had an arbitrary power; and, if any Governments had an arbitrary power, they cannot delegate it to any persons under them; that is, they cannot so delegate it to others as not to leave them accountable, on the principles upon which it was given. As this is a contradiction in terms, a great absurdity as well as a monstrous wickedness, let me say, for the honour of human nature, that although we may speak it with the pride of England, that we have better institutions for the preservation of the rights of men, than any other country in the world; yet I will venture to say, that no country has wholly meant, or ever meant, to give this power."

BURKE rarely said anything that was not both true and wise. He towered above other statesmen like a Colossus; and the ingenuous youth who wishes to settle for himself a code of political ethics, and to become familiar with noble thoughts, and grounded in just and sound principles, should read and re-read the writings of this great man, beyond all comparison the finest political writings in the language; and especially his address to the Electors of Bristol. They will then learn what a public man ought to be, and be ashamed of public men as they are.

In his second speech on the Impeachment of HASTINGS, he said:

"An arbitrary system, indeed, must always be a corrupt one. There never was a man who thought he had no law but his own will, who did not to himself and to others feel that he was a very corrupt character. Corruption and arbitrary power are of natural unequivocal generation, necessarily producing the one mother. Mr. Hastings forces the abusive and corrupt consequences, and then he justifies the conduct upon the necessities of that system. The rare things which are new in the world; for there never was a man, I believe, who contended for arbitrary power, and there have been persons wicked and foolish enough to contend for it, that did not pretend either that the practice was good in itself, or that he and that love poison, for having through it; and that love poison, for having through it; and that true policy, and acquired salutary properties.

We need give no other reasons why the despotism of a single will is hateful to us. Yet it is not more detestable than the tyranny of a mob. The cruelties and tortures inflicted on the ryotts of Rungpore and Dinagepore by DELI SING, the creature of HASTINGS, and by his instruments, were inflicted by the agents of the tyranny of a single will, that of a Governor General, who, claiming an arbitrary power in himself, delivered up the properties, the liberties and the lives of a whole people, to the arbitrary discretion of a wicked and rapacious person who made good from their blood the purchase he had paid for his power over them, and wrung from them their all, by the aid of tortures unutterable, and cruelties and horrors that disgraced humanity. But it was the mob of Paris that stripped naked the body of the murdered Princess LAMBALLE, tore the limbs asunder, and carried them aloft on pikes through the streets of that city. It was the same howling and frenzied mob that compelled a young girl, begging for the life of her father, to drink the warm blood that flowed from a victim flung out to it by the revolutionary Tribunal, and massacred; as a guarantee of her patriotism and loyalty to the Republic, and the condition on which her father's life should be spared.

But it seems to be thought strange that we should have said that the usurpations of a popular assembly are as hateful to us as such a tyranny of the mob, or the despotism of a single will; and that the doctrine that 'the will of the people is the law of the land' is atrocious.

The usurpations of a popular assembly are always committed in the name and by the pretended authority of the people, and always lead direct either to anarchy or despotism. The will of the people is the law of the land, when it wills that that shall be done which is constitutional, by constitutional means; when it is expressed in the Constitution, and in laws constitutionally enacted. So only laws constitutionally enacted. So only is it the law of the land. The will of the people, no matter how vehement it may be, cannot change the Constitution, except in the mode prescribed by the Constitution itself, and it can enact no valid laws except such as the Constitution permits.

So expressed, the will of the people is the law of the land, and so it ought to be. But General GRANT did not refer to the will of the people constitutionally expressed as law. He meant, on the contrary, that the President and every one else concerned in the government of the country ought to do whatever they might in any mode ascertain to be the wish of the people at any given moment; so that the popular caprice should be, if possible, instantly uttered in legislation, and carried into effect in Executive action. That doctrine, we again say, is atrocious. The object of the Constitution of the United States was to prevent that very evil, which would immediately make the government a turbulent and unregulated democracy, like that of Athens.

General GRANT meant that the present pleasure and will of the majority of numbers is the supreme and paramount law. It never was so in the United States, and never was meant to be so. If it were, if it had been, how could Delaware and Rhode Island have two votes each in the Senate, and New York no more? If it were so, how came Mr. LINCOLN to be President in 1861, when there were 848,000 more votes given for electors who voted against him, than for those who voted for him? There were sixteen States in which he did not receive a single electoral vote.

The object of the Constitution was to prevent the evils that in all republics have sprung up, to the ruin and destruction of the Commonwealth, from the tyrannical despotism of the mere majority of numbers. The men who made the Constitution knew that the mere majority of individuals had no natural right to rule the minority against their consent. Suppose there were 50,000 electors in a State, and they divided into a majority of 50,000 and a minority of 49,999, and two of the majority were after a time to die. If the majority were after a time to die. If the majority were after a time to die. If

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil is a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the best Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is NO more explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible, one man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold wroth.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE APPEAL. Subscribers are requested to report any irregularities in the delivery of the APPEAL at the counting room. Carriers will be furnished weekly with certificates authorizing them to collect subscriptions

ED. MANSFORD,

Supt. of Circulation.

FIVE CENTS.

We request that our patrons will not pay the newsboys more than five cents a copy for the APPEAL. It is over the counter at that price, and we allow the newsboys a sufficient margin to make a handsome profit by selling the papers at five cents per copy.

GONE NORTH.—Amos Woodruff, Esq., president of the Memphis & Ohio railroad, left for New York by the 4 p.m. train yesterday, having been telegraphed for to visit his daughter, who is dangerously ill in that city.

READ IT!—Four young gentlemen, connected with this office, desire to rent a large room in a private family, for which they will pay thirty dollars a month. Address J. B., APPEAL office, giving name and location.

STEAMER CONNECTIONS.—By reference to our river column it will be seen that arrangements have been made to ticket south bound passengers arriving by the Memphis and Ohio railroad by steamer to New Orleans and intermediate points.

AN OLD OFFENDER.—One of the oldest negro offenders in the city, known as Adam Bowdy, got in trouble again yesterday by playing his old game of stealing from a coal black Rose. He had an audience with Justice Moore, who gave him an order for board until the next term of the criminal court.

A GOOD HOUSE.—In another column may be found the card of Messrs. Kennedy, Williams & Russell, cotton factors and commission merchants, No. 268 Front street. They are fully awake for the fall trade, and prepared to do all the business that may offer in their line. The card fully explains itself. Read it!

POLICE MATTERS.—Yesterday was rather a good day at the upper district. Twenty-eight cases were disposed of, thirteen of which were for fighting. Upwards of $200 fines were assessed, a very small proportion of which was collected. It is easy to impose fines, but money as well as the victim, in many cases, is tight.

BELLIGERANT.—Andy Thompson, a gay and festive colored tiger, took it into his head, a few days since, to clean out the plantation and whip all creation, but he was overcome by superior numbers, and taken before Justice Goodlett. Not finding responsible parties willing to go his bail for his future good behavior, he was sent to jail to repent and work off his wrath.

LARCENY.—Geo. Nelson, one of the colored race, visited the house of a colored neighbor yesterday, and although the day was warm, he "froze" to several articles of male attire. The looser not relishing this cool joke, obtained a warrant; the consequence was George was brought before Justice Black, and in default of bail, "sent up."

MEMPHIS AND OHIO RAILROAD.—The earnings of the Memphis and Ohio railroad for the month of August foots up about one-third more than those of the preceding month. This is a good omen, showing that the business of the road is steadily increasing. As a further evidence of this fact, we learn that twenty cars of merchandise arrived yesterday for merchants in this city and below.

PERSONAL.—Col. John F. Boyd, vice-president of the National ticket agents association and general ticket agent of the Memphis and Louisville line, arrived in the city yesterday and is stopping at the Overton. The gallant colonel is looking as handsome as ever, and represents everything on his road just as it should be, in good trim. We hope to see him more frequently at this point hereafter.

INQUEST.—An inquest was held yesterday, by Justice Miller, on the body of an infant, the child of a Mrs. Thompson, corner of Fourth and Exchange streets. The circumstances of its death were rather suspicious, and the evidence given before the jury was conflicting. However, a verdict of death from want and neglect was found.

SUSPECTED.—A man named R. Froese was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Mr. Justice Miller, charged with stealing a silver watch, the property of Mr. R. H. Mangerine, who complained that he was up town a few nights since and got slightly under the influence of liquor, when, as he alleges, Froese took his timer. The case will be heard to-day.

FROM FRIARS POINT.—We were pleased to receive a visit yesterday from Mr. Frank Tell, of the Coahomian, Friars Point, Miss. Mr. Tell is on a business trip for his paper, and goes to St. Louis previous to his return to Mississippi. Now is the time for our merchants to advertise, both in the city and country papers, so as to be ready for the fall trade.

OUR WEEKLY.—Our mammoth Weekly is published to-day. It contains the usual amount of reading matter of all kinds, consisting of editorials, selections, brevities, state news, choice poetry, commercial, financial and river news, and in fact all the latest intelligence received by mail, mail steamers and telegraph. Copies for mailing may be had at the counting room, No. 13 Madison street. Price ten cents.

PERJURY.—Mr. Justice Hall complained to Justice Moore that a man named R. D. Jackson was guilty of the crime of perjury. A warrant was issued and the accused locked up. It appears that it is one of those cases commonly known as "straw bail." It will be heard to-day. This is not the first time Jackson has been a boarder at the expense of the county, he having been in before for obtaining money under false pretences, and got off easy. He will probably find this a more serious matter.

By-By.—The very popular agent of the Atlantic and Mississippi steamship company, Memphis and St. Louis packet company, and the great northern line of steamers from St. Louis to St. Paul, Capt. E. B. Byington, is now in this city. No more energetic gentleman lives than Mr. Byington, and his friends here only complain that he is chary of his presence in the Bluff City. His lines are prosperous, and much of their success is due to the good management of their general ticket agent.

GOING INTO BUSINESS.—Almost every negro now-a-days has a desire to get into business for himself. This is all right, if they can do it honestly. One of the sons of Ham, John Manuel by name, wanted to start a second-hand clothing store. Not having the necessary stock, he appropriated a quantity of clothing, the property of a lady in Chelsea. He was arrested, by police, and furnished with quarters in the Adams street "Pitcher," to be further dealt with according to law.

ST. VINCENT'S ACADEMY, at Cape Girardeau, on the Mississippi river, about fifty miles above Cairo, is an excellent institution, where young ladies can receive a first class education, under the supervision of the Sisters of Loretto. The grounds and school buildings are beautifully situated on a high location that is very conducive to the health of the pupils. The terms of this institution are very moderate, being $150 for board and tuition in orthography, reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, plain sewing, ornamental needlework, etc., for the scholastic year of ten months. French, German, drawing, painting, music on piano, guitar, etc., form an extra charge. Further particulars can be ascertained by addressing the Mother Superior of St. Vincent's Young Ladies' Academy, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

AS administrator of the estate of J. M. Lyles, deceased, I wish to dispose of either a part or his entire interest as sole Lessee of the Mississippi State Penitentiary. My brother's lease continues for 12 years, under an act of the Legislature of the State. My object in offering to sell this lease, either in whole or in part, is to relieve myself of the responsibility of personal attention to the management of the business, which must, of course, consist of Jackson, the State Capital, and to be properly controlled would require my immediate and constant supervision. I am a merchant, have a family, and am PERMANENTLY located at Oxford, Miss., and am otherwise so situated that I cannot give the immense interest necessary out of this Lease that attention which it deserves. There are now about two hundred convicts in the Penitentiary. For particulars address me at Oxford, Miss.

SECOND DRAWING

Southern Asylum

LAND COMPANY,

TO TAKE PLACE AT

HERNANDO, MISS.,

AUGUST, 1867.

THE First Drawing, which took place at Hernando, Miss., on the 15th inst., was attended with unusual success, when it is remembered that but a few weeks elapsed from the inception of the enterprise to that event. $17,000 worth of tickets having been sold, a like amount of property was drawn for, under the supervision of gentlemen selected by the ticket-holders present. The utmost harmony and good feeling pervaded those present, and, as will be seen from the subjoined certificate of the Managers, the affair was conducted to a close in a most gratifying and satisfactory manner:

HERNANDO, MISS., June 15, 1867.

We hereby certify that the above report of the First Drawing of the Southern Asylum is correct, and that the proceedings were characterized by order, fairness and justness unsurpassed by any Drawing of which we have any knowledge. The Managers of the Company placed the tickets and Wheels under our sole management and control.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

BRILLIANTS.

BY N. P. WILLIS.

Oh, sweetly sinks this life of ours,
Through Age's cloudy bars;
A fading flush on hill and sky,
And lo! the world of stars.

We bless Thee, gracious God, for birth
By which we hither came;
We bless Thee for the gate of death—
The good man's passage home.

We bless Thee for the heart to feel,
And for the eye to see;
For faith that reaches over time,
And grasps eternity.

Oh, softly fades this life of ours,
Through Age's silver bars;
A tender flush on hill and sky,
And lo! the world of stars.

Round Table.

SONG.

Take back the bowl, though beaming
Brightly as bowl e'er shone;
Oh! 'tis but seeming dreaming
Of days—of nights now gone!
Them, in its clear reflection,
As in a wizard's glass,
Lost hope and dead affection
Like shades before me pass.

Each cup I drain brings hither
Some cherish'd form to me;
Bright lips—too bright to wither!
Warm hearts—too warm to die!
Till, as the crystal conjures
Up those long vanished years,
Heavy, then the cup I bear to me
Seems turning all to tears.

WELCOME.

She who sleeps upon my heart
Was the first to win it;
She who draws upon my breast
Ever reigns with it;
She who kisses off my tears
Wakes the source of tears;
She who rests within my arms
Feels their closest pressing.

Other days than these shall come,
Days that may be dreary;
Other hours shall greet me yet,
Hours that may be weary;
But these lips meet mine as one,
Still this breast thy pillow,
Still these eyes meet mine as of
Billow meeteth billow.

Sleep, then, on my happy heart,
Since thy love hath won it;
Dream, then, on my loyal breast
None but them hath done it;
And when age our bloom shall change
With its winter weather,
May we in the self-same grave
Sleep and dream together!

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, September 4, 1867.

Considering all things there is more than a mere apparent improvement in money matters, although no ease has yet been experienced, and in the general market business continues to pick up steadily if not rapidly. Exchange is unchanged, bankers buying eastern sight bills at ¼ off to par, and selling at ¼ premium.

Gold opened at 141½ in New York and remains firm. Brokers here bought this morning, at 140 to 140½, but report no counter demand.

Silver was in demand at 134 to 136 for halves and quarters. Coin of all kinds was scarce.

City scrip was dull, calls and offerings alike meagre, dealers buying at 55c and selling at 65c.

Police scrip was in demand at 75 to 76c and hard to be obtained. Selling at 78 to 80c.

County scrip remains inactive and nominally 65c buying and 70 to 72c selling.

Southern money is generally dull and we have no change to report.

Beyond some little inquiry for Memphis and Charleston railroad stock at 36c there was no movement in the line of securities and consequently no established values.

COTTON—The market sympathised with the depression in New York and closed dull on the basis of yesterdays transactions, few sales having changed hands and no buyers on the street.

The general market was hardly so active as reported yesterday, but considering the day of the week trade continued to hold its own to some extent, and exhibits symptoms of a steady improvement as the season advances.

Bran is in meager supply and steady at $18 to $20 per ton, in store. Butter choice is in demand, and a small consignment received per river sold readily at 30c; lower grades nominal. Bacon is unchanged, excepting clear sides, which continues to stiffen, and rules generally at 17c. Bagging continues nominal. Corn is in light supply and firmer, but inactive at $1 70 to $1 75 for yellow and white. Cornmeal moves slowly at $3 40 to $3 50, on arrival, and 25c to 50c higher in store. Coffee is easier—26½c for choice Rio. Eggs scarce, and choice fresh would sell readily at 27½c, if not higher. Flour is weak and nominally unchanged—$13 to $14 for choice family unchanged—$12 heavy at $20 for choice timothy; in fact there seems to be no market. Lard is quiet at 15c for tierce and 14c to 14½c for keg. Molasses, dull at 60c to 70c. Onions, firm at 3c. Seeds—Timothy, Oats, quiet at 72c to 75c in store. Potatoes, nominal at $4 to $5 per bbl. Pork, quiet and firm at $25 75 to $26 in store for mess. Sugar, unchanged. Whisky, dull, $1 60 to $2 50 for common.

The business of the Memphis and Ohio railroad is improving rapidly. The receipts for the month of August will exceed those of July nearly 50 per cent. The business of the road will increase more rapidly during the next two or three months.

The Columbus, Tiffin and Toledo railroad, with a capital of $1,000,000, has been incorporated in Ohio, and will run through nine counties.

The Richmond and Danville Pacific railroad have to be transported from the eastern border, and are estimated to cost, laid down, one dollar each. Fuel used for the locomotives has all to be transported two hundred miles. As the road progresses westward this expense will increase, for as yet no good coal has been discovered.

Seven-Thirty Notes.

There are yet twenty millions of the first series of the seven-thirty notes dated July 15, 1864, to be received by the treasury department. There were originally three hundred and eighty millions of dollars of these notes, but on the 15th of the present month, when the time for redemption or conversion into five-twenties expires, only forty millions were out. Secretary McCulloch extended the time for their redemption to September 15th, as has been before stated. On Saturday, twenty millions of these notes were received by the treasury department, five millions of which came from Boston bankers. Most of this amount would have been received the day before if it had not been for the storm. It is probable that the other twenty millions will be either redeemed or converted long before the time given by Secretary McCulloch expires.

—The Fort Smith (Ark.) Herald says: Fine crops is in the country. They say there never was such fine crops of corn in this country before.

—The new Catholic church erected at Fort Smith was dedicated by the bishop of Arkansas on Sunday, the 18th of August, with imposing ceremonies.

—There were no new developments affecting the status of the cabinet yesterday. Further changes do not appear probable.

Boats in Port.

Steamer J. S. McCune.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business on the levee yesterday was exceedingly dull, with one arrival and but two departures. The Sam J. Hale cleared for Cincinnati with two bales of cotton. The Rowena, Capt. Davis, is the regular Saturday White river mail packet. The J. S. McCune, Capt. Duffer, is advertised to leave for White river today at 4 p.m. The wharf master has been authorized to allow merchandize to leave freight on the levee for forty-eight hours.

Capt. Chas. Stone, a noted commander of Pittsburg, Cincinnati and New Orleans steamers, died at Beaver on Monday. He once commanded the Monongahela and Keystone State.

The Belle St. Louis is the regular Thursday Cairo and St. Louis packet. Capt. Zeigler commands.

The Memphis and St. Louis packet Adams has again resumed her regular trips, leaving here on Friday next. The Peter Balen will ply in the New Orleans and Little Rock trade this season.

The Lady Gay and Henry Adkins left St. Louis on Saturday for New Orleans. They are probably lofting the sand-bars at Phillips or Plum Point.

Col. John F. Boyd, general agent of the Memphis and Louisville road, who is now in this city, has perfected arrangements by which passengers will be ticketed through upon the Richmond, Indiana, Henry Ames, R. E. Lee and General Quitman. This is a very important matter to travellers, and will insure them making connections with a daily line of packets not equalled on the river for speed, comfort and safety. Col. Boyd deserves the gratitude of all passengers for his energy and enterprise.

The City of Cairo, which left here on Saturday night last, grounded the first night out. On Sunday evening she met with the Continental aground at Phillips' bar, and worked at her all night, but could do no good. The Continental has a large freight and passenger trip. She laid the City of Cairo one thousand dollars for her services. The Henry Ames were still aground at Napoleon yesterday, and will have to lighten over Phillips' and Bulletin bars, as they are drawing more water than there is in the channel.

Capt. Davis, of the Memphis and White river packet line, has been running his boats this summer, at a loss, for the accommodation of the people of White river and the merchants of Memphis, and it is the duty of every merchant that collects trade from White river, to support Capt. Davis, and Capt. John Elliott, of the Des Arc. Their interests are identified with the shipping public of the Memphis and White river trade. Our merchants should stick to these packet lines, if they desire to retain the trade of the rivers.

Welcomitted, yesterday, to mention the return of Capt. James Peterson, the well known passenger agent. Capt. Jim has passed through many scenes since leaving Memphis, but none have improved him so favorably as his old stamping ground.

Messrs. N. & J. Hoffheimer, at No. 270 Front street, have received an invoice of "Old Bourbon" which would make an Indian keeper smile. The large and well selected stock always kept by this house should be examined by those interested. Fine old brandies, whiskies, etc., are always on hand, and the terms will be found to suit the times.

Capt. H. M. Smith, vice president of the Memphis and St. Louis packet line, and Mr. E. B. Byington, the general railroad and steamboat passenger agent, were in the city yesterday.

It was rumored on the streets yesterday that the Front row merchants, shipping freight to White river, had shipped the same on an outside packet which sends her business to Louisville and St. Louis. Boats that forward their orders to St. Louis and Louisville, should remember that this influx of goods of Memphis, and our merchants do themselves injustice to support them in any way.

The St. Louis Democrat of Tuesday says the Boatman's Association of that city took action yesterday in regard to the Cincinnati bill of lading imbroglio, so far as to appoint a committee to draft resolutions sustaining the boatman, or something to that effect.

Bushrod Berry Forsyth came off the Carondelet packet railway on Saturday. She will receive magnificent new guards.

The water-fall have got to be "water-flies"—they used to "fall" from the bank of the head, but now they "rise" from the top of the evanoun.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of Tuesday has the following:

"Though Monday is usually the dullest day of the week, business seemed to be more likely on the wharf yesterday afternoon than it has been for some time. The shipments for Memphis and New Orleans were quite heavy. Not dieing packed day there was little doing at the packet landing. A large lot of new cotton that has arrived here this season was sold yesterday on change. It was brought from Nashville and sold to Mr. S. Katzenberger, cotton merchant, for fifty cents per pound."

The steamer of the Bostona No. 3 was sold yesterday, at auction, by James S. Laws & Co., at the foot of Butler street. It consisted simply of her machinery. Her four boilers brought $475 each, and the rest was sold by pieces, the whole bringing about $2000.

Some of our merchants show a disposition to fight the new bill of lading to the latter end. A paper was being circulated on change yesterday, to obtain the signatures of merchants, pledging them to a guarantee against insurance companies who have agreed to insure on the new bill of lading. Some merchants avowed they would order all such companies to cancel what policies they had of them. Meanwhile, there seems to be little disinclination in the shippers on boats at the wharf that have adopted this new bill of lading.

Sixty years ago there was hardly a craft larger than an Indian canoe on the great Western lakes. In 1841, the lake trade amounted to $20,000,000. In 1851 to $500,000,000, in 1861 to $550,000,000, and it lids fair, in 1871, to reach the enormous sum of $1,000,000,000.

Remarkably rapid steamer passagers have recently been made. The Peerless from Detroit to Buffalo, 300 miles, in 20 hours and seventeen hours. This is said to be the shortest passage on record, but this statement must be received with caution. One thing is certain, the Canadians can no longer claim to be without steamships in navigation. The Novada ran from Greytown to New York, 2,070 miles, in five days and twenty-two hours. This is an average speed of fifteen miles an hour, which is fast ocean going.

STATE ITEMS.

—The Jonesboro East Tennessee Flag is fearful that the corn crop in that region will yet prove a failure, owing to excessive drouth.

—An exchange says: "A collision between the whites and blacks is reported as having taken place at Chattanooga on Wednesday. The negroes were driven out of the town, procuring reinforcements they returned and renewed the fight. A great many were wounded. Fears are entertained of a general collision in that neighborhood.

—The number of the Tennessee state militia is being resumed, a civil and military examination of the reported outrages on black and white unionists in different portions of the state, having settled the fact that they were gross exaggerations.

—A movement is on foot in Nashville to establish a line of steamboat packets between Nashville, on the Cumberland, and Florence, on the Tennessee.

—Col. B. M. Edwards, and ex-union officer, was recently tried at McMinnville for using seditious language during the late canvass, and sentenced to be disqualified from holding office for three years. We presume he inadvertently said he would vote for Etheridge.

—The mayor of Franklin denies the reported outrage upon white and black unionists at that place.

—The Banner, in an article on the credit of the city of Nashville, says: It thus appears that there actually remains on the tax books, uncollected, the enormous sum of $288,352. How far this will go towards relieving our present embarrassments, let all delinquents carefully consider. We doubt not that scores of those who are condemning the financial policy of the city council, and swearing that corporation checks are as worthless as Confederate bonds, are delinquent tax payers. Go to the revenue collector's office and settle, gentlemen, before giving further vent to your indignation.

—The citizens of Nashville are complaining because the state librarian keeps the library open only two h
